Not illustrated. 1817 Excerpt: . possession of the promised land, he divided it into portions to each family respectively; and to preserve the distinctness of these families perpetual (no doubt for the ultimate purpose of establishing the birth of the Messiah, hereafter to be of the prophet sied race) he prohibited all alienation of any portion of the land for ever. The land, be says in his law, shall not be sold for ever; for the land is mine: for ye are strangers and sojourners with me And again, Every one of the children of Israel shall keep himself to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathersg. No doubt there are many who would have rejoiced at an occasion of ingratiating themselves in the favour of their king by a courtly accommodation to his wishes, even at the expense of violating an ordinance of him by whom kings rule...
