Excerpt: . . . that it should lend its efforts to perpetuating the name of Peter Edes who surely deserves a prominent place in the roll of pioneers. In order that Peter Edes may get his share of this paper I will conclude my narrative of The DeBurians by adding that before the club passed out of existence three more publications were issued: The First Year Book of The DeBurians of Bangor, Maine, Moses Greenleaf, Maines First Map-Maker, 1902, written and edited by Judge Edgar C. Smith, and the Revolutionary Journal of Col. Jeduthan Baldwin, 1775-1778, edited with a memoir and notes by Thomas Williams Baldwin in 1906. These books, issued in limited editions, were widely circulated in this country and among collectors in England. They evoked many favorable reviews and comments and because of the character of the contents and the excellence of the typographical appearance directed...
